↑ CORNER of INTERIOR LOAD BEARING NOT supported

Request for Removal of unsafe and unsound residence at 600 Linden rd.

We request the complete demolition of main residence at 600 Linden road to village standards, for the following reasons.

Extensive inspection, and interior demolition, was done after we took possession which required a permit and could not be done prior to ownership. It was my hope that we could justify saving the structure. It was determined by the staff expert at the historical library that there was no historical value or person of interest that ever owned 600 Linden also.

The termite damage is extensive and shown on attached pictures. It has made the structure beyond salvage. Many floor joists were not on piers after being destroyed by termites, and those that were still on any pier would all need to be dug out and replaced as they were all unsound. Along with the outside wall bands deteriorating to the point that walls would all have to be replaced, determined the obvious faults, but many more lie hidden.

Village inspector Scott Thomas visited home related to demo permit, and also determined that the home may be beyond saving, and could be a reference.

Note; Home is on city water and private septic. Carriage home Located to rear of property, will stay and continue to have power and water service.

Subject: Structural Inspection of Home @
600 Linden Road
Pinehurst, North Carolina 28374

Gentlemen:

Seven Lakes Engineering Services, Inc. (SLES) performed the subject inspection on January 10, 2014. The purpose of the inspection was to determine if any structural damage was present that would require remedial action to render the home safe for habitation.

Inspection of the upper floor revealed no evidence of significant structural damage. A few wall cracks were present but, none of any concern regarding length or width. Some flooring sloped slightly and there was a creak in one small area of the bedroom. An attic view of the supporting members of the roof overhead and the ceiling below did not show any signs of twisting, warping, or other structural damage.

Inspection of the ground floor revealed significant floor sloping, especially in the living room, and considerable differences in floor elevations between the living room and adjacent rooms. In addition, there is a crack in the wall above the living room fireplace. These circumstances indicate foundation settlement and/or structural damage of the ground floor supporting system.

Inspection of the basement area revealed considerable damage to the ground floor supporting structure. Some of this damage appears to have come from insect infestation. There does not seem to be any present activity. A professional exterminator should be
